WILLIAMS - LOVE OF VIRGINIA

Brownlow of Va - Ky -

by

Katherine K. Adams

In an attempt to trace the origin of the family of Rev. Eli Adams (who was born in Snow Hill, Md., 1785; later moved to Kentucky, near Lebanon, with his widowed mother and family; then in 1808 to Xenia, Ohio, where he married, in 1810, Elizabeth Books; and his last years were spent in Madison County, Ohio, where he died in 1870), - and finding it difficult to obtain any information about the parents and family of Eli, the search widened to include related families, hoping that thereby clues might be found which would help establish the beginning of this branch of the Adams family.

The material thus unearthed became so interesting and voluminous, however, that it seemed best to preserve it in a somewhat permanent form, as the information now available might soon become lost and much of it would then be unreplaceable when the present sources disappear, - so the present collection contains practically all of the data relating to these various families which has been collected to date. Many cases have been reported of the recent passing away of older members of families, and with them has gone a fund of information relating to the early histories which is probably gone forever, for no one had been sufficiently interested to make any notes of the data and no ~~known~~ records are known to exist. And many reports of recent destroying of old letters, documents, diaries, etc., have also been received, so the need of collecting all these things before it is too late has been impressed very strongly, and is the cause of the present attempt to place some of this material in available form, even tho in a very incomplete and full-of-errors state, hoping that it may not only be of help to others who may be interested in some of the families contained here, but that other information (with corrections to the present collection) may be forthcoming relating to some of the families here mentioned.

Great appreciation is due to the many who have faithfully done their part to make this collection as complete as possible, and it is hoped that somehow, somewhere, sometime, the elusive forbears may come to light. Many, many days have been spent in library work, hundreds of letters written (and, I regret to say, many remain unacknowledged and unanswered) to obtain what is here given. One interesting question has arisen: A letter of inquiry was sent to a man who was known to be collecting data about a family which is connected by marriage with two of the families mentioned herein; his reply was that his book was now published and the inquirer would doubtless find all the desired information in the book. Query: Was it from such replies that he obtained sufficient material to publish ~~a~~ a book? Incidentally, the desired information was not in his book!

It is hoped that corrections, suggestions, additions, - any information pertinent to anything contained in this collection, will be sent to the writer.

REV. ELI ADAMS and his Descendants.

Eli Adams, born at Snow Hill, Maryland, July 13, 1785. married Elizabeth Beeks, (daughter of Christopher and Catherine Beeks (see Beeks Family), who was born in Augusta County, Virginia, Nov. 15, 1790, died at Mechanicsburg, Ohio, Nov. 18, 1847) on Aug. 2, 1810, at Xenia, Ohio.

Eli Adams died near Tradersville, Madison Co., O.

The father of Eli died when the boy was about 7

The names of the parents (and brothers and sisters) of Eli are not known, though descendants of Angelo Adams (born 1771) and Elizabeth Kellam (which see) believe Eli and Angelo were brothers.

AS DIRECTOR OF STATE MUSEUM

Forestry College Professor
Resigns to Take Albany
Position May 1.

NOMINATED BY GRAVES

Choice of Education Commissioner Ratified by Board of Regents.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-STANDARD.
ALBANY, April 1.—The appointment of Dr. Charles Christopher Adams of Syracuse as director of the state museum at a salary of $5,750 by the board of regents was announced tonight by Dr. Frank P. Graves, state education commissioner. The appointment is effective May 1. Dr. Adams will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. John M. Clarke in May, 1925.

Dr. Adams was nominated for the post by Dr. Graves at the last meeting of the board of regents and confirmation was given by the board.

Dr. Adams, now professor of forest zoology and director of the Roosevelt Wild Life station, New York College of Forestry, Syracuse, has presented his resignation to Dean Moon of that institution effective May 1, and on that date will take charge of the state museum.

Technical Men on Staff.

The museum has supervision of scientific work of the education department. The outstanding work in recent years has been the geological survey under direction of the state geologist and paleontologist and staff. This is the oldest official geological organization in the United States, dating from 1835.

The museum includes the work of the state botanist, entomologist, archeologist and other technical members of the staff. The director besides general supervision of scientific inquiry is custodian of the museum now occupying the fourth floor of the education building and consisting of scientific collections.

Included in the governor's plan for spending $100,000,000 for new buildings in 10 years is a new monumental building exclusively for museum purposes. In this development of the museum it is proposed it shall expand in fields of history, industry, agriculture and art.

The collections of the museum are restricted to a display of the natural resources and other treasures of New York state.

DR. CHARLES C. ADAMS Hall Once Director.

The museum was for many years under the direction of James Hall, the greatest American geologist of his day, who was put in charge of the geological survey of the state in 1836. Dr. Hall's successor was John Mason Clark, geologist and paleontologist, who became director of the museum in 1904 and who died last summer.

Dr. Adams was born in Illinois in 1873. He was graduated from Illinois Wesleyan with the degree of bachelor of science in 1895, and took his master's degree at Harvard three years later, and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He holds the honorary degree of doctor of science from Illinois Wesleyan.

Immediately after his graduation he served his alma mater as assistant in biology, later was assistant entomologist in the Illinois State Laboratory of Natural History, and in 1903 became curator of the museum of the University of Michigan.

Directed Cincinnati Museum.

He was for two years director of the Cincinnati Society of Natural History, and in 1903 became associate professor of animal ecology in the University of Illinois. He came to the State Forestry college in 1914.

He is a member of the American Society of Naturalists, the Association of American Foresters, and the Association for the Advancement of Science. He has written extensively upon wild life and has one of the richest private libraries in the country upon his own scientific specialties.

Dr. Adams will be, by virtue of his office of director, an ex-officio member of the state park council. In view of his long association with forestry and forest zoology, it is the expectation that he will prove of large value in the development of the recreational and wild life features in our state park program.

May Serve Schools Better.

It has been the hope of the department also that the museum may be made more valuable in its contributions to the public school system of the state and that Dr. Adams by virtue of his long teaching experience may make the museum more valuable. Dr. Adams is the parent of a family of four. He is a member of the New York Academy of Sciences. James Hall was succeeded by John Mason Clark, and steadily through their administration the scientific work of the museum grew in volume and in scholarship. The museum now comprises the work of the state geologist, state botanist, state entomologist and it will be enlarged to include inquiries and exhibits in state history, industry and agriculture.

Dr. Charles C. Adams of Syracuse, professor of forest zoology and director of the Roosevelt wild life station in the College of Forestry, will, on May 1, become director of the state museum. He will be in charge of a scientific staff which, while it is not large, has proved its high character and usefulness, and of a museum the greatest in the country which is confined in its exhibits to the resources of a single state. Because Dr. Adams' field of work has been wild life and forestry, he should be of great usefulness to the state park council of which he is ex-officio a member, in the development of the state park program. For that program $15,000,000 is now available and more will be. Also because Dr. Adams has been all his life a teacher, as well as a field explorer and a writer upon his specialty he should be and he expects to be able to make the state museum serve more directly and constantly the public schools of the state.

Dr. Adams is one of the great scientists of America. He comes to an office held successively by two great scientists in another life. He comes to the directorship of the museum as the museum is about to expand its field of work, and as plans are being considered for giving it a new and monumental home of its own. The honor done him by this appointment from Commissioner Graves is a great one, and the opportunity offered to the new director to make the museum a greater factor in the educational and recreational as well as the scientific work of the state is great also.

DIRECTOR ADAMS

The announcement of the appointment of Dr. Charles C. Adams of the faculty of the College of Forestry, Syracuse University, to the important post of Director of the State Museum, will give genuine satisfaction in this city, though it will be tempered with regret at the prospect that Albany, instead of Syracuse, will be Dr. Adams' future official habitat.

It is a well earned honor and promotion. Dr. Adams has ranked high among the zealous and accomplished members of the staff of the Forestry College. His favorite specialty has been forest zoology, or that branch of his expert calling which comprehends wild life. But his equipment goes far beyond that useful and interesting sphere and it will be the verdict of all who know his ripe capacity that he is particularly fitted for the duties that await him as the head of the State Museum. The latter institution is no equal among State institutions in this class in the country. As Dr. Adams is a successful representative in the Board of Forestry, "the Museum now comprises the work of the State Geologist, State Botanist, State Entomologist, and it will be enlarged to include inquiries and exhibits in State History, Industry and Agriculture." By the same official authority we are reminded that Director Adams "should be of great usefulness to the State Park Council, of which he is ex-officio a member, in the development of the State Park program."

Among the recommendations which establish Dr. Adams' eligibility for the high distinction accorded him, we must include his ardent and intelligent civic spirit. Aside from his educational and technical duties in Syracuse and throughout the State, he has interested himself, in many practical and productive ways, in the public affairs, and particularly in the school needs, of the city of his temporary home. Where such unselfish enthusiasm is combined in the same individual with expert aptitude for official service, the result is a citizen that any community can gratefully prize. This explains why THE HERALD, in common with many of our people, is sorry to part with Dr. Adams, while felicitating him on the larger honor assigned to him by the State.

Stepney Parish, Somerset County, Maryland. Page 460/61
Founded 1692.

The old silver communion service of this parish is now in St. Phillips Church at Quantico. It consists of a flagon and a pair of chalices with paten covers. The large plain flagon has a cylindrical body and a wide splayed and moulded base; the cover is domed and the thumb-piece is scrolled and pierced; a heart is on the handle end. The sacred trigram in rays is engraved in front.

Inscription.

Rev^d Alexander Adams, Sen.
Rector of Stepney Parish to the said Parish, 1752.

Rev. Alexander Adams, the donor of this service, was born in England in 1679 and ordained by the Bishop of London at Fulham in 1703. He was rector of this parish for sixty-five years, from 1704 until his death in 1769.
For four years, between 1708 and 1712, he served unassisted all the six congregations of the four parishes in Somerset County, which necessitated his traveling 200 miles a month. His interesting letters show great concern for the Maryland churches.

Rev. Alexander Adams officiated at the wedding of Col.
William Stoughton, donor of the silver service of Somerset Parish.

THE ADAMS FAMILY.

A GENEALOGICAL STRAIN UNIQUE IN THE NUMBER OF EMINENT AMERICANS IT HAS PRODUCED. by Frank Allaben, Editor-in-Chief.

HENRY ADAMS, who emigrated from Devonshire, England, and settled about 1636 in Braintree, Mass., founded a family which is unique among American ancestral stocks for the number of eminent individuals it has produced. The Lee family of Va. can be compared with it for virility, and if we lower our standard of individual eminence, can be cited as having produced fully as many sons conspicuous in public life. But the Lee's give us only one lofty figure, Robert E. Lee, the greatest military genius of our nation; while the ADAMS FAMILY, besides other distinguished men, has produced three Americans of preeminent rank, - two presidents of the United States and a third, still greater figure, Samuel Adams, to whom we are more deeply indebted for our independent existence as a Nation than to any other single individual, with the possible exception of George Washington.

One other American family, the Harrisons of Virginia, Ohio and Indiana, rival the Adams family in the singular distinction of having given us two of the twenty nine presidents we have so far had. Thus two families have produced four Presidents, nearly one-seventh of all our Chief Executives. Furthermore, in Governor Benjamin Harrison of Virginia, the Harrison family has to its credit a third conspicuous representative, one of the greatest patriotic figures of the Revolutionary period. Yet the two Benjamin Harrisons and Gen. Wm. Henry Harrison, in their combined abilities and eminence in service, will by most judges be accounted somewhat short of the combined stature of Samuel Adams, John Adams and John Quincy Adams; while in men of secondary eminence and distinguished service the remaining Adamses leave the Harrisons far in the rear.

The Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica gives about a page and a half to Pres. John Adams, nearly a page and a half to Pres. John Quincy Adams, nearly a page to Samuel Adams, conceding him "to have done more than any other one man, in the years immediately preceding the war of Independence, to mould and direct public opinion;" gives over a half page to Charles Francis Adams, diplomat, and also contains many notices of Henry Adams, historian, of John Quincy Adams, candidate for Vice-President on the ticket with Horace Greeley in 1872, of Brooks Adams, legal writer, and of Gen. Chas. Francis Adams, Jr., Civil War General, historian, author, and president of the Union Pacific Ry. These were all members of the "House of Braintree", as it has been facetiously styled; while three other American Adamses are also given articles on the Britannica, - Henry Carter Adams, Economist, Herbert Adams, sculptor, and Herbert Baxter Adams, historian and educationalist.

This record is unique; yet the student of genealogy and heridity may raise a question: Is the ancestral strain in "The House of Braintree", which has lifted so many of its members into eminence, the Adams strain itself, or some other ancestral strain blended with the Adams blood?

In other words, is the tendency toward genius, seen in the Braintree Adamses, to be attributed to their inheritance of Adams blood, or to their inheritance of the strain (common to the entire eight Braintree Adams' who are noticed in the Ency. Brit.) which came to them from four passengers on the Mayflower, - John Alden, Priscilla Mullins, and the latter's father and mother?

This question is legitimate because the Alden-Mullins strain found in two of the United States presidents and in Samuel Adams, the "stormy petrel" of the American Revolution, is also found in two other American eminent men of genius, - William Cullen Bryant and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, as well as in a considerable other number of men of secondary talent. Is there, in the Adams family of Braintree, any evidence of anything above mediocrity prior to the intermarriage with the Bass family which brought the Alden-Mullins strains into the Adams family?

As the writer has no claim to the Alden-Mullins blood, his inquiry simply grows out of an interest in the hereditary value of ancestral strains. In this connection he invites contributions or suggestions from any one interested in the particular problem before us, - "The House of Braintree" or in the general subject.

O BITUARIES

Rev. Eli Adams, (by William Williams.

The subject of this sketch was born in Worcester Co., Md., July 13, 1785. He was brought by his widowed mother to the Western Wilds and settled in what now constitutes the State of Ky. when he was but 7 years of age. Here he remained until 1808 when he removed to Xenia, O. In 1810 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Beeks, with whom he lived long and happily. In 1814 they both experienced religion and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church and continued faithful members of the same until death gave them their discharge and reward. Bro. Adams was licensed to preach about 50 years ago; four years after was ordained deacon and four years from that, elder. In his private and public relations to the church he was always faithful, earnest, devoted. He preached a great deal and was always respected as a very industrious and earnest minister of the Word, and only failed to work for the Master when old age and increasing infirmities rendered it impossible. As a citizen he stood without reproach or suspicion, strictly upright in all business relations and much esteemed by his neighbors. His religious life was more distinctly marked by a holy, sweet example than by words or outward professions; he lived well and around his life there gathered a quiet, spiritual power. Thus was the Church blessed thro 50 years with this pure and devoted life. Many will rise up in heaven and call him blessed. His form and words are gone but his spirit is indelibly impressed on our souls. His patience, love and wisdom are more sacred now than when he moved among us. His last sickness was attended with much suffering, yet endured with Christian patience and resignation. He peacefully fell asleep in Jesus at the home of his son, Eli, in Madison County, Ohio, May 10, 1870, at the advanced age of 84 years, 10 months, and 4 days. "Servant of God, well done." William Williams.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beeks Adams (by C.B. Warrington).
Nov. 18, 1847.- Near Mechanicsburg, Champaign Co., O., sister Elizabeth Adams, consort of Rev. Eli Adams, and daughter of Christopher and Catharine Beeks.. Sister Adams was born Nov. 15, 1790, in the State of Va. and emigrated, with her parents, from Augusta Co. to Xenia, O. where in August, 1810, she was united in marriage to Rev. Eli Adams. In 1814 she, with her husband, united with the M.E. Church, and soon after embraced religion. She was a pious and exemplary Christian, beloved by all who knew her, and has left an affectionate husband and 8 children, with a large circle of friends and acquaintances, to mourn her loss; she died in the triumph of faith and gave satisfactory evidence that she has gone to the regions of light and bliss. She endured her affliction with patience and Christian fortitude. For about 18 months previous to her decease her zeal in the service of God was very much increased and frequently while engaged in family devotion, she was constrained to praise the Lord aloud. A short time previous to her decease she tenderly embraced her husband and said: "We have lived to see all our children grown but one and the Lord will take care of him. We have been blessed above many parents in this respect. It was not designed for us always to remain here together. We must part. This body is all weakness but God is my strength." Five of her children being present, she called them one by one to her bedside and after affectionately embracing them, bade them farewell and exhorted them to meet her in Heaven.

Taking her son, who was the attending physician, by the hand, she said; "William, my child, live for God. Mourn not for me; as children you have been greatly blessed; you have not been deprived of your parents in early life and thrown upon an unfriendly world like many others; but the Lord has permitted us to raise you all, but James." She then again called James to her bedside and said to him: "Be a good boy and meet your mother in Heaven." Three of her sons being in Illinois, her dying request to them was to meet her in Heaven.... Her only sister, Mrs. Mary Powers, being present, and not a subject of saving grace, she affectionately addressed her on the subject of religion and exhorted her to seek religion salvation, and meet her in Heaven. She has since embraced religion and united with the M.E. Church. She requested to be buried at Mechanicsburg; and desired that her funeral sermon be preached from Rev. 14, 13. Her request was fulfilled. Her disease was ~~pleurisy~~ pleurisy, but terminated in inflammation of the lungs. C.R. Warrington.

Mrs. Eliza Adams Nagely Dies of Bright's Disease.

.... She was loved by a large circle of old acquaintances who mourn her death. Mrs. Eliza A. Nagely passed away at 9:45 P.M. Sunday of Bright's Disease, aged 77 years. (Died July 18, 1897, Clinton, Ill.) Last Nov. she was taken sick and for the last 4 weeks has been confined to her bed. During the last hours of her life she was in an unconscious state and death came peacefully in the presence of her family. Those from abroad at her demise were Thompson Bosler, of Los Angeles, Amos Johnson of Ellenwood, Ks., both sons in law to the deceased, Mrs. W.H.H. Adams of Bloomington, Ill., and Chas. Nagely of Chicago. Mrs. Nagely was born in Madison Co., O., Feb. 14, 1820, being a daughter of Rev. Eli Adams, who was for 50 years a prominent Meth. minister in that state. On Oct. 4, 1838 she was united in marriage to Aaron Nagely at the home of her parents. With her husband she continued to reside in Ohio until 1849 when they came to Ill. and settled in Clinton where they have since resided. Mrs. Nagely was the mother of 9 children, two of whom died in infancy and another, Mrs. Wm. Phares, d. Feb. 18, 1896. The names of the surviving children are: Mrs. Amos Johnson, Ellenwood, Ks., Wm. C. Nagely, Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Pearl Bosler, Los Angeles; Jennie Nagely and D. C. Nagely, Clinton; and Chas. Nagely of Chicago. Funeral services were held at the family residence at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 20. Mrs. Nagely became a member of the M.E. Church in 1836 in her 16th year. In the summer of 1862 she was baptised by Elder Dudley Downs and united with the Christian Church in Clinton. Mrs. Jeannette Edmiston had charge of the music.

Paul R. Hickok presented a tribute from the Minister's Assoc. of Delaware, who attended in a body. The exercises were closed at Mortuary Chapel by the impressive ritual of the I. O. O. F. Dr. Mann referred to the fact that there were but two ministers in the Ohio Conference older than Mr. Adams and that, with his own sainted father, he had toiled in those early years in the laying of the foundations of that great conference. Dr. Barnes based his remarks upon the text, "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty."

The sudden death of Col. Cyrus Barton Adams on Friday afternoon, about 3:20 o'clock, May 12, 1922, was not only a severe shock to the entire community but cast gloom over the big state institution, the St. Charles School for Boys, of which he was superintendent. To the 800 boys in the institution, Col. Adams was "The Big Father", and he took a personal interest in every lad sent to the school. Many a boy who never before had a chance in the world, after a few years of training under Col. Adams, has gone out into the world and made his mark in business and professions. Col. Adams installed a system of military training in the school... and most of the boys have benefitted physically and mentally by this method of training. ... Until Thursday evening, Col. Adams was apparently in the best of health. He complained that evening of illness and while in Geneva visited a drug store and got some pepsin. During the night he was not relieved and at 3 o'clock his son-in-law, Dr. Carpenter, was called. His sickness was not considered at all serious, and the following day Dr. Carpenter was not called. Early in the afternoon Col. Adams was lying down, and asked Mrs. Adams to take a nap, as she had had little rest the night before, and stated that he was feeling better. Shortly afterwards he had passed away. Physicians attributed his death to angina pectoris Two years ago Col. Adams was elected pres. of the Amer. Prison Assoc. He was one of the best known penologists in the country. He was b. in Marion Co., O. July 4, 1862. Was grad. from Ohio Wes. 1884. At outbreak of Spanish-Amer. War he went to Porto Rico as Lt. Col. of the 4th Reg. of Ohio Infantry. Later was military instructor at Ohio Univ., until 1902 when he was app. supt. of Ohio State Reformatory at Lancaster, O. ... In 1909 he was app. Supt. of the St. Charles School by Gov. Deneen, and he remained there until Dec 31, 1913, when he accepted position of supt. of State Reformatory at Concord Junction, Mass. After 2 yrs. there, he was app. State Supt. of the Prisons of Mass. ... Feb. 20, 1918, Gov. Frank O. Lowden induced Col. Adams to return to St. Charles. Besides his widow, Mrs. Winifred Adams, he is survived by 2 daughters, Mrs. Frances Stimson, wife of Robert Stimson of Detroit, and Mrs. Catharine B. Carpenter, wife of Dr. Ralph W. Carpenter of Geneva, and a brother, Ernest E. Adams of Chicago. Services were held at the big gymnasium at the School Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Col. Adams' favorite hymns were sung by the entire gathering, - "Rock of Ages, Lead, Kindly Light, and Abide with Me." Col. Adams' favorite passage of scripture, the familiar 23rd Psalm, was read. Dr. Abel White of Chicago, a personal friend, took this Psalm as his text. Burial at Oak Hill

A BRIEF SYNOPTICAL HISTORY OF THE BEEKS FAMILY.

Prepared by Mary Alice Cheek,
Des Moines, Ia. Sept. 20, 1904.

Walter Bek, a Norman (Scandinavian), (Dane), was signed by the Cross (Knighted Baron of Eresby) by Henry III in 1270, on going to the Holy Land with Prince Edward.

Upon the Norman Conquest he obtained, among other manors, that of Eresby, in the county of Lincoln.

John Bek, or Beke, was his oldest son.

Anthony Bek or Beke, a younger son, was constituted by Edward I Archdeacon of Durham in 1273. On the 9th of July, 1283, he was elected Bishop of Durham and received his mitre from Thomas Bek, Bishop of St. Davids, of Wales. He had frequent quarrels with the prior of Durham.

From 1305 until the demise of Edward I he was under royal displeasure because he stood for the cause of the people against the arbitrary edicts of the King. Immediately upon the accession of Edward II he was fully restored to his rights.

At the Battle of Falkirk, he led the second division of the English army with 39 banners.

He was a haughty man and his haughty spirit was somewhat gratified by his accumulated dignities of Bishop, Count Palatine (of Chester), Patriarch of Jerusalem and King of the Isle of Mann, the latter dignity having been bestowed upon him by Edward II.

Surrounded by his officers of state, as Palatine, he appeared as Military Chief of a powerful and independent franchise. Nobles addressed him kneeling, and knights waited in his presence chamber, and at his table bareheaded and standing. His birth gave him a natural claim to power. He was courageous, liberal and was surrounded by luxury.

He founded the colleges of Chester and Lanchester, erected towers at Barnard Castles.

In Lincoln County he endowed Alvingham priory and built a castle at Somerton. In Kent he erected a beautiful manor house at Elthan, where he died March 3, 1311. He was the first Prelate of Durham who was buried within the walls of the cathedral. His tomb was placed in the east transept between the altars of St. Adrain and St. Michael, close to the Holy Shrine.

His personal arms were:

Gules a fer de Moulin ermine which were borne on his banner without any junction with those of his See, he being deemed merely a temporal noble when in the field.

The Manor of Eresby in the County of Lincoln afterwards became the property of John Beeke. It is now designated by the title of Willoughby of Eresby, the title having descended to Robert de Willoughby and Margeret, his sister, wife of Richard Harcourt, whose mother was a Beeke.

The arms are:

"Within a bordure gably, argent and gules first and fourth sable, a cross engrailed or, second and third gules a cross moline argent."

A branch of the Beeke family had for their personal arms
"an ostrich head argent, holding in the beak a horseshoe."

James Beeks came from England to America in 1680.
He was the father of David Beeks (born 1721), who was a General of the Virginia Militia; and David Beeks, b.1721, was the father of James Beeks, born 1751.

Probably also the father of Christopher Beeks who married Catherine...

It is not yet known just who was the father of Christopher Beeks, but descendants of James Beeks, (b.1751) knew descendants of Christopher's and were closely related.

Some of the research resulting in the above account of the Beeks family was done by James Christfield Beeks, (b.1838), great grandson of James b.1751;
some by Mary Alice Cheek, and the present revised account by Katharine Kellogg Adams, 1837 Greenleaf Ave., Rogers Park, Ill., who will be grateful for any information relative to the families mentioned herein.

GANNAWAY FAMILY.

Origin of family and derivation of name not known, tho the following suggestions have been made:

"Name possibly of Norse derivation. The Vikings, when they overran parts of England and France in the 10th Century, seem to have already been in the habit of using surnames to some extent. I take it that Gannaway was originally Gangerweg which, in the 10th Century in Denmark and Norway meant that one was in the habit of going on raiding expeditions, - in other words, a pirate. The natural phonetic changes will account for the changes in pronunciation and spelling. I think there is a chance of finding out something in the Domesday Book of Wm. the Conqueror, and it would probably be given as Gangerweg or way, if the family were holding lands in England at that time. We know that Ganger was used as kind of a surname by Hrolf Ganger when he conquered Normandy and began its line of Dukes. A painting of Theodric Gannaway shows him as a powerful man of Nordic type." (Written by a descendant of Theodric.)"

"The Gannaway who migrated to Virginia came from Bath, England, where the family had lived for several hundred years. The family seems to have originated from a merchant who came to England in the Middle Ages from Genoa, Italy, and who was quite prominent in the affairs of the Hanseatic League; and the name was originally spelled in England "Genoway", thus indicating the origin."

"The recorded history of the Gannaway family dates back to about 1700 in West England, when two brothers, John and Marmaduke Gannaway, emigrated to the United States. Marmaduke had several daughters but no sons. John had only one son named John II and the record says: 'His son John III died in 1784, leaving considerable estate of land and negroes and several children, six sons and six daughters.' The sons were: William, John IV, Thomas, Robert, Gregory and Edmund."

(The compiler of this record has been unable to learn to what the "recorded history" refers, and has found no one, so far, who seems to possess such a record.)

Mr. W. B. Spratt of Richlands, Va., was instrumental in finding a list of children of a John Gannaway in an old hymn book:

William Gannaway, b.	Apr. 26, 1747	Robert b.	Sep 7, 1756
John	Sep 4, 1748	Florence Mch	6, 1759
Catherine	Jan 4, 1749	Sally	July 19, 1761
Thomas	May 8, 1751	Betsy	Sep 24, 1764
Gregory	Dec 8, 1753	Susannah	Feb 9, 1768
Mary	May 13, 1754	Edmund -	1760

Mr. John Trent of Dillwyn, Va., furnished documents, old letters, accounts, etc., which gave the following information:

JOHN GANNAWAY, Sr., lived in Buckingham Co., Va., when his son John Gannaway, Jr., died, about 1770. John, Sr., was administrator of the estate.

(A record was found at Newberry Library where in 1750, Albemarle Co., Va., the will of Thomas Anderson was witnessed by John Gannaway, Sr., and John Gannaway, Jr.)

Some documents dated 1781 list the following claimants of the estate of John Gannaway, Jr., the number of claimants being 12.

Mary Gannaway	John Gannaway,
Thomas Gannaway	(John Gannaway as guardian
Gregory Gannaway	for his sisters:)
Robert Gannaway	Betty Gannaway
Money Gannaway	Susannah Gannaway
Robert Sanders ("for his wife's part)
James Johns " " " "
John Woodson " " " "

(The name of the son William does not appear here, tho it occurs in other documents.

On p.1 the sixth son of John III was Edmund; tho but 11 names appear in the hymn book list, it is thought there should have been a sixth son there, - that that list is a list of the sons of John III; and it is possible that "Money" is a nickname for Edmund.)

Documents dated 1793, referring to the same estate, name:

Robert Sanders	James Johns	Robert Gannaway
John Woodson	Greggory Gannaway	William Gannaway
John Gannaway	Money Gannaway	Thomas Gannaway
Charles Walker (had evidently married one of the daughters.)
Reuben Seay	" " " " " "	" "

One of the 12 claimants is here missing. Probably this was Mary Gannaway, who had married William L. Williams by this time and had moved to Wythe Co., Va., about 1793.

In 1817 documents contain the following:

Gannaway

Gannaway Morgan, "sole legatee of Frances ~~Morgan~~, deceased, late Morgan, which said Frances was the daughter of John Gannaway, deceased." It seems probable that the Frances Gannaway here named may be the one listed as Florence (b.1759) in the hymn book list, tho this is not proven. In the hymn book list, Betty and Susannah would have been minors in 1770, but of age (and married) in 1793. This would seem a further proof that these lists all refer to the one family of children.

Found no mention of Gannaway in Greer's List of Immigrants to Virginia 1623-1666.

List of Newspapers of Virginia in libraries given in Vo. 8,

Also, while the hymn book list contained but 11 children, the names practically correspond with those of the children of John Gannaway, Jr.; also these lists contain the same names as were given for the sons of James III (who had 11 children, 6 boys and six girls, with the exception of Edmund, who would make the 12th child, and there are 6 daughters. Probably, therefore, these three lists all refer to one family, and that of John Gannaway, Jr. It seems possible that Edmund may have been nicknamed "Mo ney", the name of John, Jr.'s 6th son.

The following records were obtained at Newberry Library, Chicago:

Gregory Gannaway appears in an Auditor's Acct XXVI, 180, which shows that he received warrant in 1785 for service, Thursday, April 14, 1785, Militia list, 289 L., 4s, 8d.

Pamela Robertson of Chesterfield Co., Va., is mentioned in "Colonial Families of the U.S., Vol. p.443.

Mary Robertson, who married a John Gannaway and lived in Murfreesboro, seemed to have relatives in Chesterfield Co., Va., named Purdy and Robertson. Also Gregory Gannaway, who married Rhoda Robertson, had a daughter Permelia.

Samuel Williams recorded in Cumberland Co., Va., 1782, with 9 whites, 11 slaves in family.

In one of the documents owned by Mr. Trent, John Gannaway, Sr. is followed by "Col."

John Gannaway, Sr., probably died about 1827.

It is not known which John Gannaway was in the Revolutionary War but the "Col." John Gannaway, Sr., may be a "clue".

GANNAWAY

As to the origin of the name Gannaway Mr. William Shepard of "Gannawacas", Guinea Mills, Va., writes as follows:

"Of course England, being overrun at various periods by the Norse invaders, received strong infiltrations of this ultimately Teutonic blood, and the etymology of many family surnames may be traced directly to some northern word or syllable. In Harrison, "Surnames of the United Kingdom", p. 158, I note that Gannaway is English and signifies Dweller at the Straight Road. It is composed of the old English words gega plus weg.

SHEPARD

The name is English, the old form being Sceap-hierde. In 1623 the Shepard who is supposed to be our ancestor was living at Elizabeth City, Va. One of the name went to the House of Burgesses. The earliest Buckingham Shepard of whom we have knowledge is a soldier in the French and Indian Wars, his name said to be Jacob. His son, it appears, was Samuel, who married Miss Burwell of Gloucester, and served in the Revolution. His son William E. married Louzianne Guthrie; his son was Edward Poindexter Shepard, whose son Miller J. is my father.

The family bears arms of Shepard of Sussex, which are found copied and named in an old Shepard book of the Eighteenth Century. The arms were granted in 1574, and are

Ermine on a chief sable three pale axes argent;
crest, on a mount vert, a stag courant regardant
ppr. attired cr. Motto, Nec timeo, Nec sperno.

We are connected with the Yancey family among others, on the Shepard side.

The arms of the Evans of Gwynedd is not shown in books of heraldry but is found in an obscure book on the family.

See p. 36 l

MOLLOY.

The Molloya descend from Irish Kings, the family being traced back to Niall of the Nine Hostages of the Fourth Century, A.D. The Irish form of the name is O'Nealumaich; its meaning is "Servant of Good." The clan seat was in the ancient territory of Ferceall in Meath, now Ferceall and Ballycowan, once the ancient Feredal Territory. James Molloy served in the Revol., evidently then a middle aged man. His son Daniel m. Miss Mary Knight and had David Molloy, b. circa 1795, d. Apr 29, 1826, a sergeant in Capt. Wm. Jackson's Co. of Light Inf., 7th (Cray's) Reg. Va. Mil. War of 1812, and would have gone to a captaincy had he been longer in service. He was quite young when he saw military service. He m. Janet Baugh Stratton, b. June 15, 1797, d. Aug. 29, 1820. She was the daughter of Peter Stratton of Fowhatan, who moved to Buckingham in the late 18th C. and himself the descendant of Joseph Stratton, member of the House of Burgesses from James City Co. in 1632-1632, and in turn the scion of an old English family which has been traced back to 1194, their names occurring in letters from kings and popes. Further, Mrs. Gene Stratton Porter was of this line, as is Dr S W Stratton, Pres. of the Mass. Inst. of Tech.

WOODSON.

The Woodsons descend from Dr. John Woodson who came before 1625 to Va. with Sir John Harvey, their original home being in Dorsetshire, Eng. The family seems to have grown greatly from the original head. Martha Woodson, who m. John Gannaway III was a daughter of John Woodson and Elizabeth Anderson.

EVANS

Catherine Evans, who married John E. Gannaway, was a daughter of Lt. William Evans who was born in 1756 in Bucks Co., Pa. and 20th in descent from Edward I, King of England, by his first wife Princess Eleanor, and of Frederick IV, King of Castile and Leon. Lt. Miss Elizabeth Gannaway (7), daughter of Edwin C., found in records at Richmond, Va., the following land awards:

" The only Gannaway whose name I could find on the records was that of John Gannway (spelled with one n). There were no records of any grants made earlier than the 18th Century. If there were any members of the family who came to this country earlier than this, I do not imagine it will be possible to find out anything about it unless there are some records belonging to some members of the family now.

John Gannaway was given a grant of land (300 A) by Geo. II on June 29, 1739, for which he paid the English government 30 shillings. The land included in this grant was in Goochland Co. (on the Beaver Pond Run of Willis River).

A second grant was made by Geo. II to John Gannway on June 6, 1759, in Cumberland Co. For this grant he paid 5 lbs., 5 sh. 1023 acres.

The third grant, which was given on March 25, 1762 by Geo. III included 300 A of land in Buckingham Co. 30 sh. was paid for this grant.

The fourth and last grant recorded was also made by Geo. III on May 15, 1775. 20 sh. was paid for this grant of 166 A. in Albemarle Co. (on the north side of the Appomattox River.) One part of the record was rather blundered but as well as I could put the most readable words together, it seems that "our ancestor" came from Kent Co., England.

GREGORY GANNAWAY

re. Mary Colbarnen Salisbury:

His wife came out to Missouri with my grandfather (Jas. H. Colbarnen) and his people; died and was buried at Fessenden, near St. Louis. He was in the Revol. War and his wife told my cousin I was tired and worn and begged he was when he came back- they did not know him. My cousin always said her grandfather Gregory Gannaway was with Braddock at his defeat.

Mr. J. C. Leckard of Elmhurst, Ill. obtained the war record of Gregory and John Gannaway, which is as follows:

THE KELLOGG FAMILY.

Taken from the book: "The Kelloggs in the New and Old World"
Pub. by The Sunset Press & Photo Engraving Co. ,
San Francisco, Calif. 1903.
Compiled by Timothy Hopkins of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society. (Copy in Newberry Li brary, Chgo.)

No coat of arms, but the family had two strong characteristics which entitle it to distinction - its patriotism and remarkable freedom from crime.

MARTIN KELLOGG lived in Hoppet Lane, Braintree, Engl, south of the Lower Railway St., between College House and the Mazes, 40 miles N.E. of London. The name in England dates from about the time o f the Conquest, A. D. 1086.

HON. DAY OTIS KELLOGG, formerly U.S. Consul at Glasgow says the Kelloggs were partisans of James VI of Scotland and came with him to England when he became James I; and from there came to New England. KEYLOGG is the earliest form of the name in England.

Essex County was the earliest home of the Kelloggs, S. E. corner near London. First found in Debden, 40 miles north of London.
The first of the name was:

NICHOLAS KELLOGG b. about 1488. Two sons:
William Kellogg
Thomas Kellogg.

The first member of the family to come to America was probably a son of Thomas:

PHILLIPPE Kellogg (1). Was in Braintree in 1583.

Since the published volumes give the entire list of descendants, only one branch i s followed here. The 7th son:

(7) MARTIN KELLOGG (2) son of Phillippe (1) baptised in Great Leighs Nov. 23, 1595. His son:

(17) Lt. Joseph (3) son of Martin (7) born in Great Leighs, Eng. Came to America between 1626 and 1666, when his first wife died. Then married Abigail Terry, dau. of Stephen Terry, who came to America on the Mary & John in 1630. He died between 1707 and 1708. Was in Farmington, Conn.
in 1651. Moved to Boston about 1657; lived where the Advertiser Bldg. now is, on Washington St. Removed to Hadley where he ran the ferry 1661 to 1758. Later Stephen Goodman m.
his daughter, kept the ferry, known as "Goodman's Ferry."

Lt. Joseph was on the committee which purchased land from the Indians, now the sites of Sunderland, Montague and Leverett, Mass.
He was for 29 years ensign and Lieut. i n the Foot Company of Hadley, Mass, until 1692. Was in Turner's Fight May 18, 1676 against Indians. Had 20 children.

28. Samuel Kellogg (4) son of Lt. Joseph (17), born Hadley, Mass. Sep 28, 1662. Married in Hartford, 1687, Sarah Merrill (dau. Deacon John Merrill and Sarah Watson. Died in 1717. His son:

(88) Capt. Isaac Kellogg (5), son of Deacon Samuel (28) b. Hartford, 1697, m. Mary Webster, dau. Joseph Webster and Mary Judd. d. 1787. Resided in New Hartford. First Rep. to Conn. Assembly; reelected 23 times; Justice of the Peace, Lt. 4th Co. of the Train Band and Capt. in 1774. Distinguished for piety, good judgment, firmness and ability as magistrate. Son:

348. Abraham (6) son of Capt. Isaac (88) b. Hartford 1720, m. in New Hartford, Conn. 1747 Sarah Marsh, dau Jonathan Marsh of Hartford. d. 1805. Chas. Frazer Kellogg writes of him: "My grandfather was 5 ft. 8 or 9 in. in height, erect, with a haughty appearance and quick in gesture. Cheerful, pious and agreeable."

963. Solomon (7) son of Abraham (348) b. Dec. 10, 1751, m. Ruth Kellogg (6-429), dau. Deacon Silas Kellogg (125) Sheffield, Mass. He d. 1795. She d. 1845, aged 96. She lived in Oriskany Creek, near Oneida Castle, N.Y. He moved in 1787 to Paris, N.Y. Was the first to boil salt brine for salt. Bought land at Oriskany, Sempronius, Manlius and Salia. Later lived in Syracuse.

(War record). SILAS Kellogg enlisted in Capt. Samuel Bartlett's Co. in 1776; later volunteered to go north as guard to Gen. John Fellows. Was a pensioner at Sheffield, Mass. when he died. Is probably the one referred to in the following: "Silas Kellogg, 1757-1838; pensioner Berkshire Co. Priv. in Mass. Cont. Line, b. Sheffield, Mass., where he died. Married Rhoda Root."

From DAR Lineage Book.

2697. Solomon Kellogg (8), son of Solomon (963). Born New Hartford, Conn. Apr 4, 1778; d. near Cleveland, O., Sep. 16, 1834. M. Rebecca Turner (b. Aug. 19, 1779 near Newport, R.I. Da of Eleazer Turner of R.I. and Nancy Ann Bannister McNamara (Scotch).

Rebecca Turner Kellogg died in Sempronius, N.Y. May 14, 1825. (married 1799). Solomon married second, Mrs. Brown in 1828. He lived in Sempronius and in Lansingburg, N.Y. The second wife was unkind to the children and the daughter DELIA KELLOGG went to live with the family of a Dr. Lord of Owasco, N.Y., a dentist. Solomon bought three farms in different localities, hoping to be on the direct road of traffic from east to west. One farm was the Great Salina Springs. He left his family there, went back east for copper kettles in which to make salt. Returned, was sick and
